MORE THAN A COLOR

Our name comes from 'British Racing Green' – a colour adopted and made internationally famous by the iconic British motor racing team of the 1900s.

The association began during the Gordon Bennett Cup of 1900 when the British team reluctantly accepted a green livery for their cars after the USA,

Germany, and France had helped themselves to red, white and blue. Rather than grumble, the British team gradually turned circumstance to their advantage and their predicament into pride. By the time steely Selwyn Edge won the Gordon Bennett Cup in a British-made green Napier in 1903, British Racing Green had become much more than just a colour.

British Racing Green had become a symbol of victory against the grain – of industry, endeavour and adaptability of a properly British variety.

These are the characteristics that have inspired the Racing Green name and continue to define the character of our brand and business.

BRITISH STYLE

Founded In 1991, Racing Green is a brand built on the best of British heritage; a true story of success, combining a classic style with modern fashion trends.

- Started in 1991 by entrepreneur David Kranz -who was inspired by American up market casual wear and in particular American mail order brands such as Lands End and American retail brand Banana Republic.
- Racing Green soon established a nationwide reputation for quality well-designed clothing for men and women, anchored by its Flagship Store at 193-197 Regent Street London and its growing reputation for quality smart casual wear via Direct Mail.

- Its original business model was standalone stores supported by mail order - It was Racing Green's foray and success in mail order that brought it to the attention of The Burton Group, who in October 1996 acquired the Racing Green brand for £19 million pounds as part of its move into home shopping alongside the acquisition earlier in 1996 of Hawkshead and Innovations.
- Specialty Racing Group purchased Racing Green in 2002.
- November 2005 - Specialty Retail Group sold to private equity group - Gresham.
- March 2008 - Baird Group buys The Suits You, Racing Green and Young's Hire business from Gresham.

BRAND ETHOS

Racing Green is a brand that represents that broad section of the public in Britain and abroad that appreciates brands for their creativity, quality and consistency without being prepared to pay for the privilege of wearing a logo simply for the sake of it.

The style of the brand is both contemporary and classic. Styling is understated and subtle, the brand has a familiar friendly feel to it. It is comfortable and easy to wear, welcoming not intimidating, fashion in a minor key.

On balance the brand has a casual feel to it which is reflected in the mix of merchandise and even when doing more formal looks there is still a more relaxed approach. Our job is to identify current classic styles that most men and women would see as essentials in their wardrobe. The use of classically British styles extends through to traditional British cloths, fibers, designs and typically confident use of colour.

Branding reflects this subtle understated approach. It is more often internal than external, intricate consistent and tactile, signifying quality, attention to detail and care.
